NO

Drifting Noticed In Southern Area

A warning went out to Alberta farmers from the Dominion experimental farm in Lethbridge following several days of high winds.

A. E. Palmer, assistant superintendent, said summer fallow not properly handled is blowing and we recommend to farmers to get out on their land and ridge it with a one-way disc. It is an ideal time for farmers examine their land to see just what is happening. If they are blowing, preventive measure are needed. We have found that by removing all but every fourth disc, from the one-way disc an effective implement is secured for ridging the land and covering up the fine dirt. It penetrates the soil about three inches and leaves the surface rough and ridged.

Holds Land

It takes only about half an hour to make the change and it is well worth trying. A check made on the land reveals that good trash cover is holding the land.

CURLING NOTES

The local bonspiel last week created much excitement. First prize in the Grand Challenge Event was won by W. Gallagher's rink consisting of M. Seeger, N. O'Valley and K. Ford. Second prize was won by L. Milligan's rink consisting of J. Lee, E. Sawyer and R. Marr.

First prize in the Consolation Event was won by W. Lee's rink.

Local News

Mrs. Marts after receiving word that her brother had passed away at Vancouver, spent a month with relatives in that city, returning last week.

Mr. L. Hohlen who has been visiting with friends at Drumheller, returned Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. McMurray of Oyen, are visiting with their daughter, Mrs. Morrell.

Mrs. Pfeiffer and daughter Maxine, are spending a few days in Calgary this week.

Mrs. R. Peyton returned from Calgary.

Miss Phyllis DeMeare is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Gallagher this week.

consisting of L. Robinson, Florence Barros and Mrs. Lee. J. Charyk's rink consisting of W. Barros, E. Barry and Jean Mortimer won second prize.

The Chinook Open Bonspiel started on Monday morning with 22 rinks in play — 3 from Excel, 4 from Lanfine, 6 from Cereal, and 9 local rinks. The rinks in the semi finals of the Grand Challenge Event are: Bishop, Excel; Vanstone, Excel; McKenzie, Lanfine; Fowler, Lanfine. Results of Grand Challenge and Consolation Events will be published next week.

Moving Pictures

A moving picture showing will be held in Chinook School on Friday, March 3rd at 8 p.m. List of films include two technicolor films. Subjects are travelogues, news and special comic for the children. Proceeds will be used for the purpose of placing a radio in the school to take benefit of the educational broadcasts sponsored by the Department of Education.

Round About Town

One of the most noted citizens of the town was in a jovial mood at the dance last Friday.

We don't blame him since a certain party was able to be in attendance also. These snowy roads certainly keeps them from seeing each other very often.

Who was it that kept the town folk awake Saturday night with the noise of his truck. If the various reports on the matter are true, all the occupants of the vehicle, must have had a very enjoyable time.

We were all glad to see Miss X's smiling face amongst us again. She seems none the worse from her accident but rather expresses it as being an experience that occurs only once in a life time.

What is the matter with the Chinook curlers this year? They seem to be either out of practise or else they are being very hospitable to the visiting rinks. But cheer up Chinook, we know what you can do and you're 'big day' is coming.

Whatever is the town coming to? Even some members of our honorable 'fairsex' have either become much enraptured with the town lads or else they have taken an exceedingly great interest in the men's favorite pastime. Now, now girls don't you know that you should only visit the elevator when business calls you there.

It isn't often that the male sex change their minds. However one of the High School boys certainly did so last Friday. Oh no he wasn't going to go to the dance. But when he saw his young lady friend there—he just couldn't resist the temptation.

Taber To Have Sugar Factory

Announcement was made this week by T. George Wood, district manager of Canadian Sugar Factories, Limited, that an agreement had been entered into by the best growers of Southern Alberta and the Sugar company for the building not later than 1942 of a factory in the Taber-Barnwell - Coalvale production district.

The site for the factory will be selected this year. A penalty payment to growers on a tonnage basis is provided for in the agreement, providing the company, for reasons of markets, war or other causes of an unforeseen nature, is unable to proceed with the building of the plant.

Establishment of a sugar factory in the Taber-Barnwell-Coalvale area will mark the opening of beet sugar development in Southern Alberta—Calgary Herald.

THE LADIES' CARD CLUB MET TUESDAY

The Ladies' Card Club met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Sawyer. Honors went to Mrs. Lee and Mrs. Cooley. The club will meet next week at the home of Mrs. Lee.

A number of young folks from Chinook attended the show in Cereal last Thursday.

Have you heard of the latest dance? It is something between a hop and a gallop whatever that might be. The originators were demonstrating it last Friday. Apparently it is even more thrilling than the Lambeth Walk. Won't you tell us what you call it?

How to Ease

CHEST COLD MISERY

FIRST—massage throat, chest, and back with Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. This relieves the distress.

THEN—to make its long-continued action last even longer, spread a thick layer of VapoRub on the chest and cover with a warm cloth.

LONG AFTER sleep comes, VapoRub keeps working—loosens phlegm—eases muscular spasms or tightness—clears the air-passages—coughing—relieves local congestion.

"Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over."

Sally Ann walked to the fireplace and looked at a pipe-rack done in painstaking pyrography with some unconvincing red poppies painted in. Below, in unsteady letters, was the verse:

It matters not how straight the gate,
How chariot'd with punishments the scroll,
I am the master of my fate;
I am the captain of my soul.

His eyes followed her gravely.
"My word, Lynn! You still have it."

"Yes," he said.
Sally Ann was remembering the golden-curtled, violet-eyed, mother-of-pearl maiden who had made that atrocity for Lynn Dana in the first frightful months after his accident. "If only she hadn't died!" she reflected.

Sarah Lynn came up so silently that the travelling cousin didn't know she was in the room until she heard Lynn say—

"Hello, Sarah Lynn! Why didn't you bring Lightning up?"

"It did ask her, Uncle Lynn, but she didn't care to, this afternoon." It was an oddly deep voice for a girl.

"Sally Ann, meet yourself at nineteen!" the host said with the air of a showman.

She saw a thin young thing in a brown knitted sports frock and beret, olive-skinned, big-eyed, awkward now, in spite of the graceful swiftness she had observed from the window.

"How do you do, my dear? He flatters me! You are far nicer than I was."

"Am I?" the girl interrogated her gravely, looking at her swiftly and away again. "I don't think I can be."

"How do you take your tea, Sarah Lynn? Nice name, isn't it?"
"Lemon and cream. I mean lemon and sugar." She flushed and her cup rattled on its saucer.

"You might safely dive into the thickest cream. We"—she took her casually into the dark atmosphere—"never seem to put on upholstery."

The girl, however, could not be put at her ease for all the kind pains. Sally Ann had the feeling that she was silent because she was afraid of saying, "Please, please, won't you take me away!"—if she spoke, and she was sorry for her and a trifle bored and a good deal annoyed. Her first long-looked-forward-to visit with Lynn! She stood up presently, eyes on her wrist.

"Nearly six! I'd forgotten these afternoon Dana dinners! Aunt Helena'll be agitated. Want to walk along with me, Sarah Lynn?"
They went down together, stop-

TAKE THE LEAD OUT

Get Oxygen in Your Blood and You'll Get the Pay that Sends You Bounding Up the Stairs.
People who smother to death die because oxygen has been completely cut off from them. Just as surely you can smother, unless you get the oxygen you breathe in to every part of your system. Without enough oxygen-carrying corpuscles, your kidneys, liver, stomach and bowels slow down. Your skin gets pale, flabby, often pimply. Your nerves may become jittery—you feel restless and depressed.

What you need is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These world-famous pills help make more and better red corpuscles and thus increase the oxygen-carrying power of your blood. ping for a word with the ancestress. Outside, the greyhound, brindle-brown, sharp-curved and flat as a book-mark, sprang upon Sarah Lynn with extravagant rapture.

"Lightning, dear," she said absently.

The creature went bounding ahead of them. She made the traveller think of the figurines in white metal, futuristic and exciting, which had been a recent rage in Paris. "I don't believe I've ever met a greyhound so socially before. Are they satisfactory?"

"I think so. She doesn't mind very well, but I—"

"Don't mind very much?" Sally Ann finished for her.

"No. I think it gives her more character. All the other dogs are so busy heeling and retrieving and charging and obeying." She was clearly more comfortable now, falling into rhythm, with the older woman's long strides.

"Oh, that's so absolutely true!"

"I know. They strive to please. There is something rather servile about it, crawling back to lick the feet that kicks them, dying on their master's grave. Lightning, now would hardly die on your grave unless it fitted in conveniently with her regular plans for her demise?"

Sarah Lynn gave a sudden laugh, deep and brief. "Oh, that's so absolutely true!"

"Well, here we are at Aunt Helena's. Nice to have seen you, Sarah Lynn. I'd like to walk with you and Lightning soon."

Her hostess was waiting in the hall, dressed for dinner, and there was the pleasantly muted sound of other Danas foregathered in the living-room.

"I'll be done and down in 20 minutes, Aunt Helena," the guest encouraged her.

The limp brown lace had been painstakingly pressed and her bath was drawn, but a short and stocky figure rose up before her.

"Miss Dana! If I might bother you a moment?"

"Penny! How do you do, Miss Pennington?"

"The bad penny turning up, eh?" the old governess said, rather out of breath. "As the saying is, but really just—still here."

"When you belong as an integral part of Danavale," Sally Ann said cordially. "So nice of you to run in, but I'm afraid I must plunge into my tub—I'm frightfully late."

"I won't keep you, Miss Dana. It's just this: if you could possibly see your way to taking my child back with you? Sarah Lynn, I mean. She's not happy here, and she's not understood, and she might be so—so splendid!" Her close-clipped words came in a rush.

The traveller was pulling her dress over her head. "We'll talk of this again, Penny, dear. I'm afraid it isn't possible, but we'll discuss it fully. But now I must really—"

"Yes, of course," the Englishwoman said meekly, "and do please forgive my intrusion, but it's so terribly important!" She went away at her throat-gripped turn.

Sally Ann went irritably into her abductions. Great-granny Lynn, young Bill, old Penny, all importuning her on her first afternoon! But not all four nor four-and-twenty could saddle her with convoluted responsibilities. She was to laugh at herself before she slept in the wide, old-fashioned double-bed, realizing she had offered to take Sarah Lynn abroad, not to please the four who wanted it, but to annoy the one who did not.

CHAPTER III.

Sally Ann had forgotten how her beautiful Cousin Adelaide—Mrs. Edwina Dana—always annoyed her with her buoyant sweetness when

Improved Greatly When He Tried Kruschen.

There has just come to our notice a case of grand relief from severe rheumatic pains. The seriousness of the misadventure and the pain that led to his ultimate recovery, are described in the following letter:

"For several years I suffered from rheumatism. I had all my teeth out and still suffered. A year ago I lay in hospital for fourteen weeks, almost crippled. When I got home I continued to take medicine, but began to get down again. A friend of mine asked me to try Kruschen salts, and I am very pleased to be able to say I have been on the mend ever since."—H.P.

Two of the salts in Kruschen are the most effective solvents of uric acid known to medical science. They swiftly dull the sharp edges of the crystals—the cause of pain and stiffness—and often convert them into a harmless solution, which is then expelled through the natural channels.

she was in command, her air of counting ten before she spoke whenever she was opposed.

Seated at the far end of the dinner table she looked like a well-coiffed Wagnerian soprano—her heroic size, her peerless fairness, her truly noble brow.

"I'm going to like this enormously," Sally Ann told herself. "After all, it's none of my bone!" She awaited the arrival of the fourth generation with lively interest. "What are they like?" she asked Edwina. "I've been away so long. Does flaming youth still flame?"

He chuckled. "They go off like a string of firecrackers. But you take 'em by and large, they're a fine bunch of youngsters. I claim I've got four of the finest sons."

"And what about your girl?"

His cheerful face clouded a trifle. "Yes, of course, Sarah Lynn. Oh, Sarah Lynn's all right. She's got some notions, but she'll come out okay. She—she's sort of like you, at her age, Sally Ann, if you know what I mean."

"And what sort of girl did Keaton marry? I passed their mad house to-day. It looks like an out-house thermos bottle."

"More like a hip-flask," he said grimly. "That's Ardine's number. Takes her drinking pretty seriously. She was married before, you know, to one of the San Mateo Suttons, and Keaton got her divorce for her."

It was pretty lurid!

"That must have fluttered the doves of Danavale."

"Well, the older women resent her, naturally. She's just too darn modern for Danavale, that's all, from her house to her boy-friends. But that's up to Keaton. Oh, I guess there isn't any real harm in Ardine; just what we used to call smart aleck! For example, she's gone in to business."

"Ah? That's commendable, I'd say."

He chuckled again. "Would you? It's partnership in a restaurant and dancing-place towards the hills—a roadhouse, really—run by a couple of her best friends. Very snappy and artistic—ritzy, they tell me, and they call it 'The Stewied Prune.' Well, I guess it's well named."

Aunt Helena was rising, portly in purple draperies, flushed with her excellent fare. "Shall we go into the living-room for our coffee? I expect the young people are arriving."

Refugees From Sudeten

Large Number Left Czechoslovakia Recently For England

Two hundred and fifty Sudeten German refugees have left Czechoslovakia for England. Most of them were members of the former German Social Democratic party, which opposed the party of pro-Nazi Konrad Henlein before Germany annexed the Sudetenland last fall. The emigrants will be quartered in Scotland but later are to go to an English colony. Eighty refugees left for Sweden and 19 for Finland.

TIRED FEET

Banded Bird From Russia

Kittiwake Gull Killed In Newfoundland, Came From Island Of Kharlov.

What is believed to be the first North American record of a banded bird from Russia has been furnished the Canadian Government through the co-operation of the Department of Natural Resources, Commission of Government, St. John's, Newfoundland. While Newfoundland has in the past co-operated closely with Canada in completing other useful bird-banding records, the information supplied in this instance is of particular value and has been added to the bird-banding records of North America by the National Parks Bureau of the Department of Mines and Resources, Ottawa, which is in charge of bird-banding operations in Canada.

This long-distance bird-traveller was a Kittiwake Gull. It was killed near Little Fogo Island, Newfoundland, on September 20, 1937, and carried a band of the Central Bureau of Birding, Moscow. Investigation revealed that the band, which was inscribed with the name "Moscow" and the number 5142, was placed on the Kittiwake on the Island of Kharlov on June 19, 1937. The Island of Kharlov lies in the Barents Sea, off the coast of Murmansk Bay in the northern part of Russia adjoining Finland, about two hundred miles within the Arctic Circle.

Scaled To Small Measure

But Engraving Of The Lord's Prayer—Not So Small

Included in a gift to the Science Museum by Mr. T. H. Court of mathematical and other instruments is a micro-engraving of the Lord's Prayer, on the scale of 13 Bibles to the square inch—meaning that the whole Bible could be written out 13 times in a single square inch on this scale. Though this sounds incredible, it is said that the record of smallness is 22 Bibles to the square inch, achieved by the use of William Peter's machine in 1854.

Records Show Nonagenarians In Most Cases Are Married Women

For 24 years, says the Sault Ste. Marie Star, C. B. Gabb has been keeping a record of the death notices published daily in the London Times. During that period, reports Gabb, 9,871 persons died before dying—and most of the nonagenarians were married women. The year 1938, when 488 persons over 90 died, was typical of that total: 154 were men and 335 were women, 213 of them married.

Thanks To A Burglar

Lawyer Grateful For His Discovery Of Lost Document

When Mrs. Fred Guth, Evansville, Ind., died Dec. 21, 1937, her will was accidentally destroyed. Attorney H. L. Taylor thought he had kept a copy but couldn't find it. Nor could he recall its contents. A burglar solved the problem. He broke into Taylor's office, ransacked it and strewn papers all over the floor. Among the scattered documents was the missing copy of Mrs. Guth's will.

Some hysterical facts only known to certain schoolboys are that "a Kaiser is a stream of hot water jumping up and disturbing the earth," and that "Napoleon escaped from Melba" also "an anachronism is a thing a man puts in writing in the past before it has taken place in the future."

The Logical Thing

The teacher had just finished telling the story of the Pilgrims to a group of small children.

Determined To Win

Chinese Are Patient And Will Eventually Beat Japan

Japanese bombings have only strengthened the determination of the Chinese to carry their war with Japan to a successful conclusion, Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson told an audience in New York.

"I have left a people whose leadership is competent," Ambassador Johnson, who was recently instructed to return to this country to report to the Government on the Far Eastern situation, said. "I have seen no hysteria, no panic, and I have seen a people whose determination to carry on is growing."

Johnson joined the United States Foreign Service more than 30 years ago, as a student interpreter at Peking, and he never since has been out of touch with the Chinese. Consequently his interpretation of the mood of China, after more than a year and a half of Japan's general war against the Chinese, is to be accepted as sound and accurate.

The Chinese are patient and long-suffering, and if they can't drive the Japanese invader out of their country this year, they will try to do so next year or the year after.

And given the tremendous reserve of manpower, which is roughly seven times that of Japan, their will to victory stands a very good chance of winning in the end—Detroit Free Press.

Approves Of Idea

Professor MacEwan Very Much In Favor Of Home Farm

A definite trend towards diversified farming in western Canada was noted by Professor J. W. G. MacEwan, of the University of Saskatchewan animal husbandry department. He believed, he said, that the idea of the home farm, where production would be patterned to meet the living needs of the farm family, was growing in Saskatchewan. This trend, by the way, would be beneficial to western Canada, he said.

Commenting upon one phase of Hon. J. G. Gardiner's recent address in the House of Commons with respect to future farm policy of the federal government, the university man said the "home farm" idea had been growing long before it was mentioned as policy by the federal minister.

Depression years, together with drought and insect invasion, had driven many farmers to the realization that it was essential they produce, if possible, the necessities of life for their families upon their own farms. This in turn occasioned a more diversified type of farming and development of the "home farm" idea of which Mr. Gardiner talked. "I think it's great stuff," said Professor MacEwan.

Performing In England

Gorilla From American Circus Lives In Air-Conditioned Cage

Gargantua the Great, 500-pound gorilla billed in the "most frightfully fenshish brute that breathes," is performing in England in his $20,000 air-conditioned cage.

Gargantua, owned by the Ringling circus interests, recently completed a tour with the Al G. Barnes-Sells Photo Circus. It was his first season on the road as a circus attraction. Gargantua is seven years old.

Gargantua is playing with the Bertram-Mills Olympia circus. In preparation for the tour, workmen polished up his steel and glass cage, and installed new trucks and larger wheels. The cage is made of heavy bars inside two thicknesses of shatterproof glass.

When Gargantua was a baby, he travelled in a wooden box, with iron bars over the top. But this time he travelled in style.

Not Destroyed By Quakes

Although ancient Rome had numerous earthquakes, they never caused any outstanding destruction. Some historians contend that many of the Roman palaces and temples said to have been destroyed by barbarians between the fifth and ninth centuries really were shaken down by quakes.

Very Badly Put

A clergyman had among his parishioners a rich, elderly spinster whom he desired to honor by introducing her to the bishop. He meant well in this introduction, but he worded it:

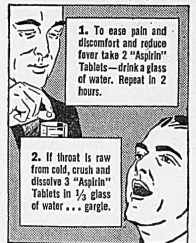

"My lord, allow me to present to you one of my—one of my oldest sheep!"

Normally, Ontario is the chief source of the honey production of Canada, but in 1937 Manitoba came first in this respect.

The Dominion of Canada produced a total of 127,350,000 pounds of factory cheese in 1937.

The Lie Detector

Best Machines Are Too Complicated For Practical Purposes

"There is actually no lie detector," says the Journal of the American Medical Association. The present status of the question is controversial. The underlying principles may be sound but these as well as the apparatus in use are exceedingly complicated except to a trained medical psychologist or a forensic medical expert or to an operator skilled in the use of machinery. There are many polygraphs or lie detectors in existence. The best and highest-priced ones are so complicated that they are useless for practical purposes.

"The inevitable result," says the Journal, "is that the majority of those using lie detectors for police departments and commercial firms have no knowledge of underlying principles and are using the method as a psychological third degree."

Tradesmen On Trial

Anxiously Waiting To Know Whether Royal Customers Are Satisfied

One thousand London tradesmen who serve Buckingham Palace are "on trial" this year. By December they will know whether the King and Queen are satisfied customers and, most important, whether their shops can display the royal arms with the underline, "By Appointment to His (or Her) Majesty." The insignia represents a distinction valued in the clean-cut, no-nonsense, no frills laundry when he visited Southampton in his yacht. Mrs. MacQueen, widow of a master mariner, was one of 21 tradesmen. Among her most prized possessions is a black cape which once belonged to Queen Victoria's mother, the Duchess of Kent.

GUARDIAN OF CANADIAN HOMES

Surprised to find Have Adopted Niece, Nephew

London (CP)—The strange story of how a Jew adopted his own refugee nephew, not knowing of the relationship at the time, has been told by Rev. Alfred Abraham Stein, of Cricklewood. The story goes back 30 years when two Jewish brothers were driven from Poland by persecution, one going to Germany and the other coming to England. The man who came to this country married an English Jewess. He lost touch with his brother, but kept a photograph of the two standing beside their parents.

Recently when fresh persecution drove refugees to Britain, he and his wife decided to adopt a Jewish boy, went to a London centre and picked out an attractive little boy of seven called Hans.

But Hans refused to be parted from his sister Ruth, who is nine. In the end they were both adopted and went to their new home.

The children were put to bed, cosy and safe. Then from their room came the sound of weeping. The foster parents, went up to them. "How comes my daddy's picture to be on the mantelpiece?" asked the boy. He pointed to the photograph of his new father and his new father's brother. The brother was the children's real father. The foster father had adopted his own niece and nephew.

The names of the children are not given because their parents are still in Germany. The brothers did not know that each other was alive.

POOL'S ATTITUDE ON WHEAT POLICY

An official statement issued by the Alberta Wheat Pool gives that organization's views on the proposed federal wheat policy as follows:

"The attitude of the Alberta Wheat Pool has been and is in favor of the continuance of an operative Wheat Board and a pegged price for wheat."

"It is true that a pegged price for wheat is of no aid to the farmer who has lost his crop and helps a man with a good crop more than a farmer with a small crop. But victims of crop failure should be helped by crop insurance and other forms of relief. The farmers who grow crops are deserving of at least a reasonable price for their product."

"The wheat situation suggests a world carryover of 1,200 million bushels on August next. The chances of obtaining a decent price in open market in view of the prospect of this tremendous over-supply are exceedingly slim. Given an average world crop this year the supply may reach the proportions of an inundation."

"In spite of the Turgon Commission's recommendations it appears to be a risky business for western farmers to depend for a livelihood on wheat prices fixed by world supply and demand. No farmers anywhere can produce

Would Tax Millers To Pay Wheat Bonus

Rockyford local of the United Farmers of Alberta has gone on record as favoring a 50-cent per bushel tax on all wheat milled for home consumption.

In a resolution wired to Hon. J. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture, after it received the unanimous approval of a special meeting the Rockyford local said:

"We, the Rockyford U. F. A. local, strongly recommend the government adopt the recommendation of the Brecken Commission at its meeting last week at Saskatoon, and furthermore, to offset the bonus deficiency, that a tax of 50 cents per bushel be placed on all wheat milled for home consumption."

Mr. Clifford Gullekson returned to his home in Exco last week, owing to sickness.

wheat at prices at present obtainable on the open markets of the world. If the world levels do not improve materially, 1939 looks like a disastrous year for western farmer

"If the peg price is discontinued next July 31st it looks like the beginning of a wheat business for western farmers war among the exporting the probable result will be plenty of casualties and no victor."
